STATEMENT FROM COMPTROLLER SCOTT M. STRINGER ON NATIONAL NIGHT OUT AGAINST CRIME

Tonight, millions of people across our City and country will unite to reinforce the bonds of trust and respect between those who live in our communities and the people who protect them. New York City has changed dramatically since the early days of National Night Out, and that's a testament to our world-class police force and concerned citizens in all five boroughs. But some challenges remain, and we must continue to find ways to engage and empower communities in the fight against violence. New York City can be smart on crime while being tough on crime, and that's the message of this evening's National Night Out.
