Fitch Rates NYC Transitional Finance Auth $1.5B Fiscal 2027 Ser A Bonds 'AAA'; Outlook Stable

Fri 17 Jul, 2026 - 3:02 PM ET

Fitch Ratings - New York - 17 Jul 2026: Fitch Ratings has assigned a 'AAA' rating to New York City Transitional Finance Authority's (TFA) $1.5 billion future tax secured (FTS) subordinate bonds (tax-exempt), fiscal 2027A.

The bonds will sell via negotiation on July 21 and 22. Proceeds will be used for general capital purposes.

Fitch rates the TFA's outstanding subordinate lien FTS bonds 'AAA'.

The Rating Outlook is Stable.

VIEW ADDITIONAL RATING DETAILS

The 'AAA' rating reflects very strong coverage of annual debt service from fiscal year 2025 pledged revenue of 7.6x. Resilience would remain strong even if TFA leveraged the pledged revenue up to 3.0x coverage (its legally permitted amount), although Fitch expects issuance to remain well below that level because excess revenue flows to the city for general operations.

RATING SENSITIVITIES

Factors that Could, Individually or Collectively, Lead to Negative Rating Action/Downgrade

A sustained decline in pledged revenues that is more severe and prolonged than anticipated, combined with a significant increase in leverage resulting in maximum annual debt service (MADS) coverage levels below 3.0x.

Factors that Could, Individually or Collectively, Lead to Positive Rating Action/Upgrade

Positive rating factors are not applicable as the bonds are already rated at Fitch's highest rating level.

DEDICATED TAX AND REVENUE BOND SECURITY

The bonds are payable from a subordinate lien on revenue derived from a personal income tax (PIT) and a sales and use tax (SUT; collectively, the pledged revenues) imposed by New York City, as authorized by New York state. Payment of the PIT and SUT revenue to the TFA is not subject to city or state appropriation.

SUT revenue will be available for the payment of debt service if PIT revenue is projected to be insufficient to provide at least 150% of MADS on the TFA's outstanding bonds.

The subordinate additional bonds test (ABT) requires that pledged revenues for the most recent fiscal year are at least 3.0x the sum of $1.32 billion (covenanted MADS for senior lien bonds) plus projected maximum annual subordinate debt service, including debt service on the bonds to be issued. Debt service on variable-rate bonds is assumed at the maximum rate for the purposes of the ABT. The TFA does not have any senior lien obligations outstanding.

DEDICATED TAX AND REVENUE BOND KEY RATING DRIVERS

Revenue Risk - 'aa'

Fitch assesses the revenue type at 'aa', reflecting the broad nature of the PIT and SUT revenues, notwithstanding the presence of financial activities that account for 25% of earnings in the city compared to 10% for the U.S. according to 2024 data. Fitch assesses the revenue sensitivity at 'a', taking into account historical declines in pledged revenues and the PIT exposure to financial activities. Revenue growth is assessed at 'aa' given that pledged revenues benefit from the city's unique economic profile, which reflects its identity as an international center for numerous industries, educational- and healthcare-related institutions, and a major tourist destination.

Pledged revenues reached record levels in fiscal 2025 and are projected to do so again in fiscal 2026 (up 10.5% yoy) supported by strong personal income performance from financial activities. Fitch expects future growth to moderate but remain solid between long-term inflation and U.S. GDP growth rates.

Resilience - 'aaa'

The high coverage levels from growing pledged revenues provide for very strong levels of resilience to changes in the economy and through downturns. Strong legal and practical protection against overleveraging also supports the 'aaa' level of resilience. A 10% stress was applied against the 3.0x ABT to inform the resilience assessment. Fitch believes issuance to the 3.0x ABT is highly unlikely given the city's debt issuance plans for pledged revenues, compliance with city debt policies and reliance on residual revenue for its operations after payment of TFA debt service. Fitch assumes the city would delay future borrowing if pledged revenues fell significantly short of management's expectations, preserving sufficient residual revenues to fund city operating expenses.

Exposure To Related Government Operations

The very strong legal structure insulates bondholders from the operating risk of New York City (Issuer Default Rating [IDR]: AA/Negative).

The bankruptcy-remote, statutorily defined nature of the issuer pursuant to state legislation and a bond structure involving a first-perfected security interest in the PIT and SUT revenue are key credit strengths. Payment of the PIT and SUT revenue to the TFA is not subject to city or state appropriation. Statutory covenants prohibit action that would impair bondholders.

As a true sale structure, TFA's rating is limited to six notches above New York City's IDR of 'AA'/Negative.

PROFILE

New York City serves as an international center for numerous industries and institutions and a major tourism destination. The city's economic profile features high wealth levels, and the local economy remains strongly linked to the financial sector. Estimated census figures for July 2025 report the city's population at 8,584,629, down 2.5% from 2020.

In issuing and maintaining its ratings and in making other reports (including forecast information), Fitch relies on factual information it receives from issuers and underwriters and from other sources Fitch believes to be credible. Fitch conducts a reasonable investigation of the factual information relied upon by it in accordance with its ratings methodology, and obtains reasonable verification of that information from independent sources, to the extent such sources are available for a given security or in a given jurisdiction. The manner of Fitch's factual investigation and the scope of the third-party verification it obtains will vary depending on the nature of the rated security and its issuer, the requirements and practices in the jurisdiction in which the rated security is offered and sold and/or the issuer is located, the availability and nature of relevant public information, access to the management of the issuer and its advisers, the availability of pre-existing third-party verifications such as audit reports, agreed-upon procedures letters, appraisals, actuarial reports, engineering reports, legal opinions and other reports provided by third parties, the availability of independent and competent third-party verification sources with respect to the particular security or in the particular jurisdiction of the issuer, and a variety of other factors. Users of Fitch's ratings and reports should understand that neither an enhanced factual investigation nor any third-party verification can ensure that all of the information Fitch relies on in connection with a rating or a report will be accurate and complete. Ultimately, the issuer and its advisers are responsible for the accuracy of the information they provide to Fitch and to the market in offering documents and other reports. In issuing its ratings and its reports, Fitch must rely on the work of experts, including independent auditors with respect to financial statements and attorneys with respect to legal and tax matters. Further, ratings and forecasts of financial and other information are inherently forward-looking and embody assumptions and predictions about future events that by their nature cannot be verified as facts. As a result, despite any verification of current facts, ratings and forecasts can be affected by future events or conditions that were not anticipated at the time a rating or forecast was issued or affirmed. Fitch Ratings makes routine, commonly-accepted adjustments to reported financial data in accordance with the relevant criteria and/or industry standards to provide financial metric consistency for entities in the same sector or asset class.

The complete span of best- and worst-case scenario credit ratings for all rating categories ranges from 'AAA' to 'D'. Fitch also provides information on best-case rating upgrade scenarios and worst-case rating downgrade scenarios (defined as the 99th percentile of rating transitions, measured in each direction) for international credit ratings, based on historical performance. A simple average across asset classes presents best-case upgrades of 4 notches and worst-case downgrades of 8 notches at the 99th percentile.
